Beyond the Veil

Expanding the Paranormal Conversation

Building Connections in the Paranormal World

There's a lot happening in the paranormal world, both here in Australia and internationally. Fascinating investigations, unusual experiences and an extraordinary variety of people exploring what remains unexplained.

Over the years, one thing I've noticed is just how diverse this community really is. Some approach the paranormal scientifically, others intuitively, while many are simply driven by curiosity and a desire to understand more.

It's this diversity that makes the field so interesting.

Of course, like any community, the paranormal world has its challenges. Different opinions, competing personalities, the almighty dollar and occasional divisions are part of the landscape. Unfortunately, constructive discussion can sometimes give way to unnecessary criticism and personal agendas.

Personally, I believe there's enough mystery out there for everyone to explore without wasting energy pulling others down. We don't have to agree on everything to treat one another with respect.

That's the philosophy we're embracing at Paranormal Pages.

Our aim is to support the paranormal community, encourage genuine exploration and create opportunities for people to connect, share knowledge and learn from one another. An important part of that vision is expanding our Paranormal Pages Directory.

We are building a comprehensive resource connecting readers with paranormal investigators, tour operators, businesses and experiences throughout Australia and internationally.

Imagine travelling interstate or overseas and being able to find paranormal tours, investigation groups or unusual experiences through one accessible directory. That's what our aim is.

Do you operate a paranormal business, tour or investigation group? Then we'd love to include you. We have several affordable advertising packages available, providing 12-months of exposure through the magazine and our dedicated online directory.

We're also looking for your input.

What would you like to see in future editions? Are there subjects you'd like explored; questions you'd like answered or fascinating people we should interview?

Perhaps you've experienced something unexplained or discovered an unusual location during your travels.

We'd especially love to hear from our international readers to build connections and share experiences from around the world.

Ultimately, Paranormal Pages is about bringing people together through curiosity, exploration and a willingness to question what we think we know.

So, whether you're an investigator, business owner, and researcher or simply fascinated by the unexplained, we'd love your support.

Send your ideas, experiences and suggestions to editor@supernalmagazineaustralia.com.au.

There's an extraordinary world waiting to be explored. Let's explore it together.

Yours in Spirit,

Anthony Kilner

The REM-POD gets an Upgrade!

Meet the New Rev 3.0

A paranormal investigation favourite has just been upgraded, as the REM-POD® Rev 3.0 enters a new generation.

Imagine a silent room. An empty hallway. Nothing appears to be moving. Then, suddenly, the REM-POD lights up. It's a moment familiar to paranormal investigators around the world, and one of the reasons the REM-POD® has become such a recognisable piece of paranormal investigation equipment.

The new REM-POD® Rev 3.0 brings faster detection, increased sensitivity options, rechargeable operation, improved temperature monitoring and a host of practical upgrades designed for investigators working in the field.

Invented by paranormal researcher Gary Galka, the REM-POD works by generating its own electromagnetic field around an antenna. If that field is disturbed, the device responds with coloured lights and audible alerts, giving investigators an immediate indication that something has changed within its detection area.

And with the arrival of Rev 3.0, the REM-POD has become considerably more sophisticated.

What's New in the REM-POD® Rev 3.0?

High-Speed Pulse Field Fringe Detection
Designed to detect rapid energy changes that earlier models may have missed.

Rechargeable Battery System
No disposable batteries, with up to 60 hours of operation on a full charge.

Enhanced Temperature Detection
Improved temperature monitoring helps reduce false positives and automatically mutes alerts after 20 seconds.

Unique Audio Tones for Every LED
Investigators can identify triggered sensors by sound without watching the device.

5-Second Startup Delay
Helps prevent false activations during REM-POD startup.

Battery Status Indicator
Quickly check remaining battery life during an investigation.

Foldable Telescopic Antenna
Designed to reduce accidental antenna damage during transport and storage.

Dedicated Mute Controls
Mute sounds and voice prompts independently.

Distinct Sensitivity Tones
Each sensitivity level has a unique tone, recognisable in the dark.

Improved Build Quality
Durable enclosed housing and rubber feet improve protection and stability in the field.

Tripod Ready
Included tripod and mount offer flexible positioning during investigations.

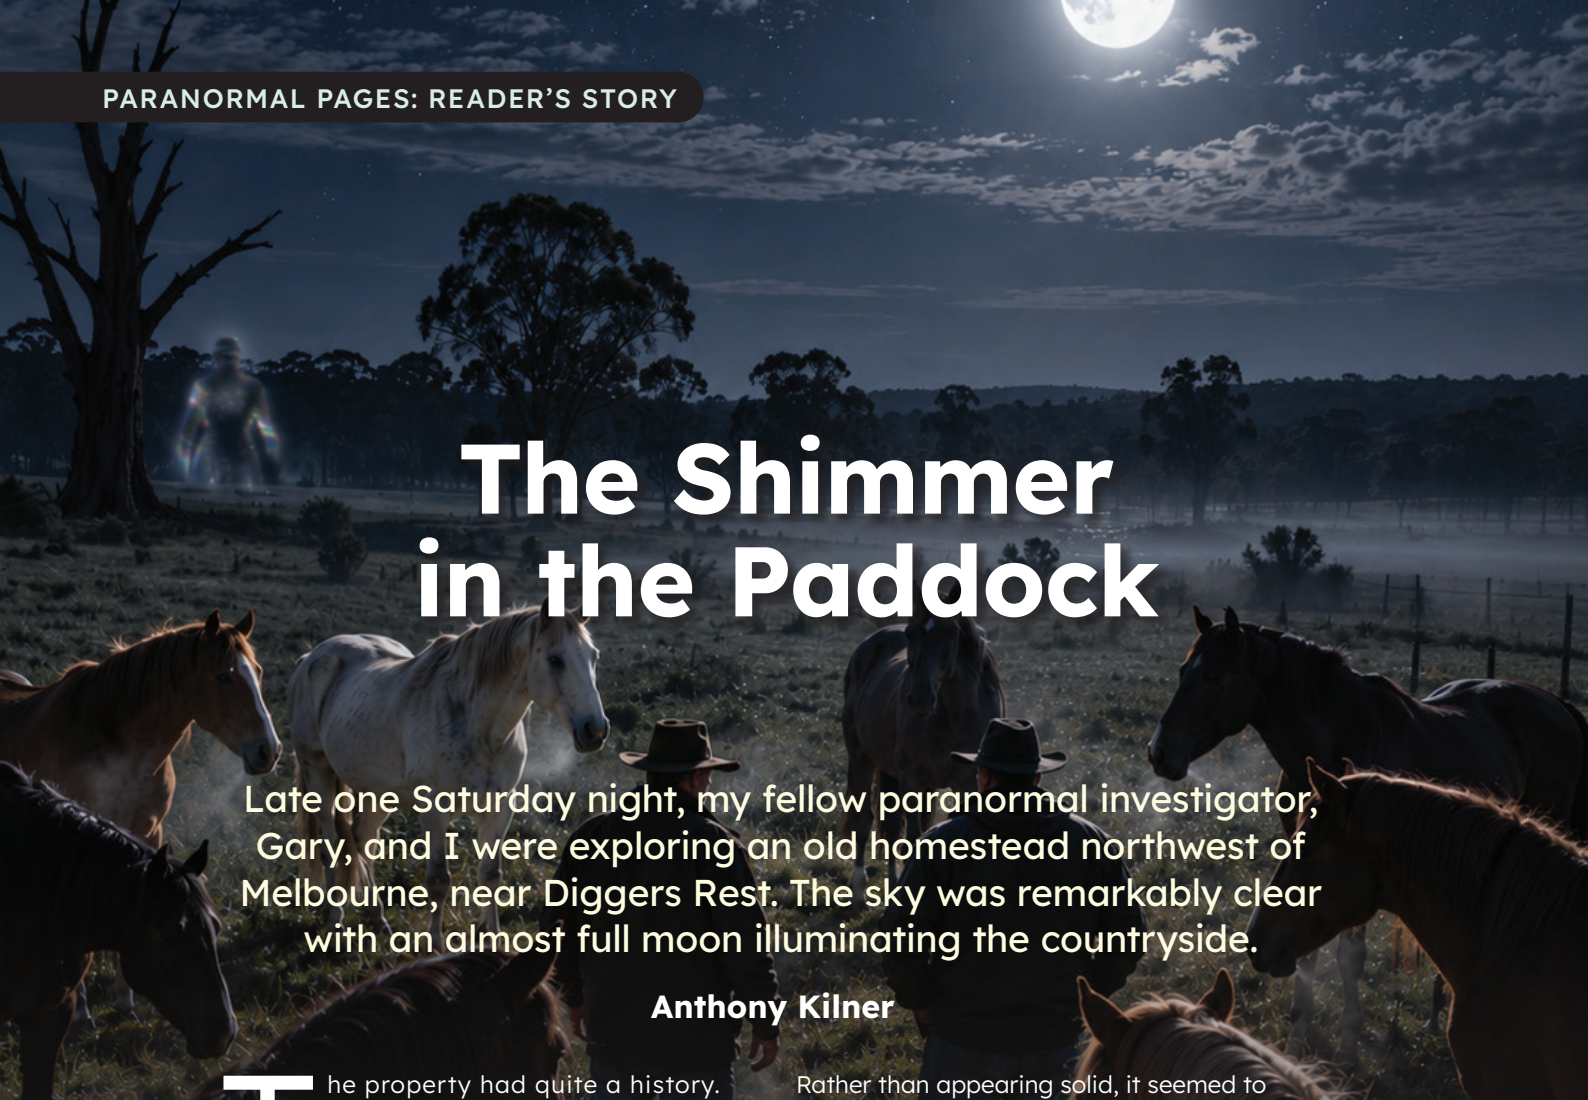

A New Generation of a Paranormal Favourite

For investigators already familiar with the REM-POD®, Rev 3.0 brings significant practical improvements to a device that has become a familiar sight during paranormal investigations.

For newcomers, the improved audio cues, rechargeable battery, enhanced temperature monitoring and greater control over sensitivity make this latest version an interesting addition to the paranormal investigator's equipment kit.

Check out the new REM-POD® Rev 3.0, available through Haunted Hardware today. RRP $330.00 at the time of publishing. S

The Shimmer in the Paddock

Late one Saturday night, my fellow paranormal investigator, Gary, and I were exploring an old homestead northwest of Melbourne, near Diggers Rest. The sky was remarkably clear with an almost full moon illuminating the countryside.

Anthony Kilner

The property had quite a history. Once reportedly used as a Cobb & Co. coach stop, it had witnessed its share of tragedy. We understood that several deaths had occurred there, including a suicide and the death of a child.

As with most of my paranormal investigations, I had deliberately avoided much of the information about the property's history. I've always preferred to experience a location without preconceived ideas influencing my senses. Gary generally handles the historical research, comparing our findings afterwards.

We'd spent time exploring the homestead and grounds, attempting to understand any energetic impressions we encountered. As the evening progressed, we ventured into the surrounding paddocks. That's when events became decidedly strange.

Walking away from the homestead, I noticed something unusual off to our right. Initially, I couldn't work out what I was seeing. There appeared to be a shadowy shape moving through the moonlight, except it wasn't behaving like an ordinary shadow.

Rather than appearing solid, it seemed to distort the light around it. Almost transparent, its shimmering outline became visible as the moonlight caught it at certain angles, similar to the movie Predator, when it activated its cloaking device.

I pointed it out to Gary. He could make out something unusual, although he struggled to see exactly what I was describing. We stopped and watched.

The shape moved across the ground towards a lone dead tree, with little trunk left and no branches, standing in the paddock. The shimmering form then appeared to climb up the tree.

Whatever it was seemed bulky, possibly larger than a human, although it was difficult to judge its size and proportions. It appeared to be watching us. Naturally, my curiosity got the better of me.

"Gary, we've got to check this out!"

"...eight horses had surrounded us. Gary actually counted them as they circled around us."

"...its shimmering outline became visible as the moonlight caught it at certain angles, similar to the movie Predator, when it activated its cloaking device."

We opened the gate and headed across the paddock, towards the tree. We hadn't travelled far when something unexpected happened. Horses began approaching us out of the dark.

Within moments, eight horses had surrounded us. Gary actually counted them as they circled around us. What happened next was extraordinary.

Some of the horses continued circling us while others moved closer, effectively herding us backwards. Every time we attempted to approach the tree, they blocked our path and pushed us further away.

They were clearly agitated, making occasional snorting and heavy-breathing sounds. They weren't particularly noisy or openly aggressive, yet their behaviour seemed remarkably co-ordinated. It seemed that some maintained a moving perimeter while others made certain we weren't going any further.

Gary and I looked at one another, wondering what on earth was happening. We tried changing direction, only to find the horses repositioning themselves.

Eventually, we accepted that we weren't getting anywhere near that tree. The horses continued moving us backwards until we reached the gate and stepped out of the paddock. Once through, their behaviour settled.

Still curious, we approached from another direction, entering an adjoining area with a slightly different view of the tree. The horses remained nearby in the neighbouring paddock. As we moved closer, they once again appeared unsettled.

Looking towards the tree, we caught another glimpse of the shimmering form. Then, almost as quickly as we'd spotted it, the shape appeared to run across the paddock before disappearing into the darkness.

Whatever we'd encountered was gone.

The following morning, we returned and counted the horses. There appeared to be nine, although Gary had counted only eight surrounding us the previous evening.

Whether that discrepancy meant anything, I honestly don't know. From memory, I believe the property owner also mentioned hearing unexplained noises on the homestead roof, sounds they couldn't readily attribute to animals. Although we discussed this later, it was more than a decade ago, so I can't be certain of the exact conversation.

Interestingly, the wider district has a history of reported UFO activity and stories of unusual creatures, including the folklore surrounding Spring-heeled Jack.

Whether this relates to our experience is impossible to say. Was the shimmering figure an optical effect created by moonlight? An animal we couldn't identify? Or something entirely different? I even wondered whether it might somehow have disguised itself as a horse, changing its appearance as we approached.

What I can say is that both Gary and I felt distinctly uncomfortable during the encounter. After years of paranormal investigation, this remains one of the more unsettling experiences we've shared.

And perhaps the greatest mystery isn't what we saw; it's why those horses seemed so determined to prevent us from getting closer.
